

Wilderness Field Instructor

blueFire Wilderness Therapy is a premier wilderness therapy program located in Southern Idaho. blueFire uses four key elements in our approach to inspire and guide individuals to a place of self-discovery and personal resolve: Clinical, Academic, Family, and Adventure. Our wilderness adventure therapy for at-risk youth helps teens overcome their challenges to become the best versions of themselves. Our Wilderness Field Instructors become mentors to our clients, helping them overcome their challenges while engaging in a wide array of activities.

- Adventure activities such as indoor and outdoor rock climbing, horseback riding, canoeing, hiking, mountain biking, whitewater rafting, cross country skiing, snowshoeing, and service projects.
- Equine Therapy provides a unique and different way for our clients to learn about themselves and continue their therapeutic journey.
- Hiking expeditions and multi-day treks are key adventure components in our group setting.
- Our experience-based education program is a key part of what makes blue Fire the best choice for families with kids struggling in school.
- Yoga and mindfulness are also key components to our therapeutic program.

Wilderness Field Instructors are trained to ensure safety, build rapport, facilitate, enable change, create teachable moments and to be a mentor. Wilderness Field Instructors manage challenging behaviors, work closely with our clinical team to help individuals reach their goals, and ultimately are there to ensure the physical, mental and emotional safety of our clients at all times.
